Places of Interest:① Naritasan Shinshoji Temple (成田山新勝寺)

Naritasan Shinshoji Temple is the headquarters of the Shingon Sect's Chizan School, built by Archbishop Kanjo in 940. One of three major temples in the Kanto area dedicated to Fudomyo-o, the god of fire, Shinshoji is visited by more than 13 million worshippers each year.

The temple also provides pleasant tourist surroundings; right behind the Hondo main building. Naritasan Park spreads over 165,000m² with breathtaking natural beauty through the four seasons. Situated along the front approach to the temple is Narita Tourist Pavilion, which provides a visual history of Japanese vehicles including the time-honored Dashi floats featured in the Gion Matsuri festival. Overseas visitors may be served green tea in the traditional Japanese fashion at the pavilion.

When you visit Narita Temple, one of the enjoyable experiences is a walk on the long approach to the temple. It is pleasant to walk, sighting many shops on the approach, including long established shops, some of which have more than 100-year histories. These shops offer a wide variety of souvenirs, including Yokan (traditional Japanese sweet), Teppozuke (pickled vegetables) and Tsukudani (small fish boiled in sweetened soy sauce), as well as local sake.

② Sogo Reido (Toshoji) Temple (宗吾霊堂・東勝寺)

Sogo Reido is also called Meishozan Toshoji Temple. This temple is said to have been dedicated by Sakanoue-no Tamuramaro. He wanted to appease the souls of the war dead of the battles he experienced as the commander-in-chief of an expeditionary force to which Emperor Kammu (781-806 A.D.) dispatched him to annihilate his opponents in eastern Japan.

The temple has been called by another name, "Sogo Reido," ever since villagers enshrined Kiuchi Sogoro (later called Sogo-sama, the Hon-Sogo), who had been executed together with his wife and four children in the middle of the 17th century for directly petitioning the shogun.

Sogo Goichidaikikan Hall exhibits dolls, and Sogo Reihoden exhibits mementos of this brave village headman who succeeded in convincing the shogun to reduce the excessively heavy tax levied on his villagers in exchange for giving his and his family's lives. 6 min. from Keisei-Narita Sta. to Sogo-Sando Sta. on Keisei Line and 15-min. walk.

③ Boso-no-Mura Museum (房総のむら)

Boso-no-Mura is a 32-ha park of historic relics set in a vast red pine forest. The entire park area is spotted with a total of 120-odd tumulus, large and small, which is called the Ryukaku-ji Kofungun tumulus cluster. The park also has a historic materials library and contains the main auditorium of the former Imperial Academy's Elementary School, an Important Cultural Property.

In adjacent Boso-no-Mura area, an open-air museum, you can see actual-size reproductions of a farmer's house, a Samurai swordsman's residence and other past Japanese structures. In one corner of Boso-no-Mura, you'll find a soba noodle plant where soba kneaders will demonstrate their traditional noodle-making skills for you. If you want, you can knead soba dough and cut it into noodles all on your own! (*Please make a reservation in advance. Tel: 0476-95-3333.) Open: 9:00-16:30; Closed: Mon., Dec. 28-Jan. 4. Admission : ¥300. Noodle making : ¥1,250 / group (1-5 persons) Access from Narita Airport: 30 min. by taxi (fare: approx. ¥5,000), or 10 min. by JR rapid train "Airport Narita" to Narita Sta., or 20 min. by Chiba Kotsu bus to Ryukakudaiji Ni-chome bus stop and 8-min. walk.

④ National Museum of Japanese History (国立歴史民俗博物館) Tel: (043)486-0123

This museum is Japan's only national museum for historical science, archaeology and folklore. It houses approximately 110,000 items for the study of these fields, about 8,000 of which are on permanent display.

All exhibits are well-arranged in chronological order from the primitive ages through ancient times and on to the modern period, providing a systematic view of Japan's history, culture and folklore. Surrounded with abundant greenery, the museum is located in Sakura Joshi Park, renowned for its marvelous cherry blossoms in spring. Open: 9:30-17:00 (Mar. - Sep.) 9:30-16:30 (Oct. - Feb.); Closed: Mon. (open when Mon. falls on a national holiday and closed the following day), Dec. 27-Jan. 4. Admission: ¥420. Access from Narita Airport: 20 min. by Keisei Line to Keisei-Sakura Sta. (fare: ¥450) and 30-min. walk or 20 min. by bus. For more information: <http://www.rekihaku.ac.jp/index.html>

⑤ Narita Tourist Pavilion (Narita Kankokan) (成田観光館) Tel: (0476)24-3232

This pavilion uses audio-visual media to provide visitors with useful information concerning places of interest. Among the things that visitors should not miss are the many exhibits showing aspects of Japanese tradition and culture such as the two festival floats used in the Narita Gion Festival. The fashions and customs of Edo-period visitors to Naritasan Shinshoji Temple are also displayed.

Visitors can enjoy a Japanese traditional "Tea Ceremony" in English on every Thursday (10:30-12:00), and also an entertainment entitled "A Taste of Japanese Culture for You" which features flower arrangement, kimono dressing, calligraphy, origami and koto playing on 3rd Tuesday* (10:00-12:00, 13:00-15:00) Admission: Free.

*In case the Monday before the 3rd Tuesday falls on a national holiday it will be held on the 3rd Wednesday of that month.

Access: about 20-min. walk along Omote-Sando avenue from JR Narita Sta. Open: 10:00-18:00 (Jun.-Sep.), 9:00-17:00 (Oct.-May). Closed: Mon. (Tue. when Mon. falls on a national holiday), year-end and New year's holiday. Admission: Free.
