FUKUOKA

FUKUOKA (福岡) lies on the northern coast of Kyushu, the southernmost of the four main islands of Japan. The city has a 2,000-year history and has prospered since ancient times as a gateway of Asia. With a population of over 5,058,000 (as of Aug. 1, 2007) people, making it the 9th largest city in Japan, it is the administrative, economic and cultural center of Kyushu. Fukuoka is a modern city with many hotels and other facilities and also temples, shrines, and other places of cultural and historic interest are carefully preserved. Moreover, it is surrounded by a diverse natural environment boasting numerous mountains, hot springs, seas, and parks located nearby the downtown area. And while Fukuoka offers all the conveniences of a major city, its slower pace allows visitors to relax as well.

Fukuoka boasts exceptional accessibility with over 300 international flights per week to and from more than 20 cities in Asia and beyond, plus of course numerous daily flights to and from airports in Tokyo, Osaka and all other major domestic destinations. Visitors arriving at Fukuoka Airport can reach the city center in only 11 minutes by subway. JR Hakata Station, the principal railroad station in both Fukuoka and Kyushu as a whole, is served by the Shinkansen, with minimum traveling times from Tokyo in less than 6 hours. Fukuoka is conveniently located as a base for exploring Kyushu, either by highway bus or express train which provide quick connections to such cities as Beppu, Miyazaki, Kumamoto, Kagoshima and Nagasaki.

During the Edo Period, the Naka River divided the present-day city of Fukuoka into the two areas: the castle town of "Fukuoka" on the western side and the merchants' town of "Hakata" to the east. In 1889, the two towns were incorporated into the present Fukuoka City, but even today facets of old Hakata remain, with for example the preservation of traditional crafts such as Hakata Dolls and Hakata Textiles.

The people of Fukuoka love festivals, and there is a full calendar of events to match. The four most representative examples are Hakata Dontaku (May 3-4), where citizens' groups dressed in costumes parade through the streets of the city; Hakata Gion Yamakasa (July 1-15), the climax of which involves seven teams of several hundred men, each carrying one-ton floats over a five-kilometer course in a time trial; Hojoya (Sep 12-18), which has a 1,085-year history held in Hakozaki shrine; and Asian Month (September), a month-long celebration of Asian culture. There are also numerous smaller festivals held in and around Fukuoka, all of which can add color to your trip.

Transportation in the City:

The easiest way to travel around Fukuoka is by subway – not only are station names indicated in Roman letters but instructions for buying tickets are displayed in English on ticket vending machines. Kuko Line runs from Fukuoka airport to Meinohama via Hakata, Nakasu-Kawabata, Tenjin and Ohorikoen (for Ohori Park). Hakozaki Line runs from Nakasu-Kawabata to Kaizuka via Hakozaki-Miyamae (for Hakozaki Shrine). Nanakuma Line runs from Tenjin-minami (south) to Hashimoto via Fukudaimae.

Fukuoka is also served by an extensive network of bus routes which takes you to most points of interest within the city and beyond. The principal terminals for local and long-distance buses is "Fukuoka Kotsu Center" (福岡交通センター) next to JR Hakata Station, and "Nishitetsu Tenjin Bus Center" (西鉄天神バスセンター) located on the 3rd floor of Solaria Terminal Bldg. in Tenjin.

The Nishitetsu Fukuoka (Tenjin) Train Station is located on the 2nd floor of Mitsukoshi department store in Tenjin. From the station, you can travel to the popular local destinations such as Dazaifu, Kurume and Yanagawa via the Nishitetsu Tenjin-Omuta Line (see following pages).

FUKUOKA 100-YEN BUS

You can take convenient buses that cost only ¥100 and the area for that is between Hakata Station and Tenjin district, which is the center of Fukuoka city. Here is another choice. "The ONE-DAY BUS PASS", good for a day, allows you to travel to most major spots in Fukuoka city. The price is ¥600.

Places of Interest: [①-⑰: Location on the City Map]

TENJIN AREA

- ① Tenjin (天神): [subway Tenjin Sta.] Bustling with energy, Tenjin is Fukuoka's principal commercial center. Here there are a large number of shops and department stores (Iwataya, Daimaru and Mitsukoshi) jostling for space with offices and even ancient shrines. For shopping, also check out Tenjin Chikagai (天神地下街), an underground mall which runs past the subway station entrance. In the western part of Tenjin is Tenjin West Street (天神西通り), a must for fashion-conscious young people, while in the eastern part is ACROS Fukuoka (アクロス福岡), a center for information and culture, covered with a terraced garden which descends into the adjacent Tenjin Central Park (天神中央公園).
- ② Yanagibashi Market (柳橋連合市場): [15-min. walk from JR Hakata Sta.] Fukuoka is very proud of its fresh fish, and a good place to see many varieties available is at Yanagibashi Market, the best known market in the city.

Hakata and Nakasu AREA

- ③ Canal City Hakata (チャンネルシティ博多): [10-min. walk from JR Hakata Sta.] Opened in 1996, this futuristic city-within-a-city is the first of its kind in Japan. Centered around a 180-meter canal, it hosts a variety of attractions including Fukuoka City Theater, a 13-screen movie theater, a futuristic amusement theme park, hotels, hundreds of stores and daily street entertainment. <http://www.canalcity.co.jp/world/english/urban.html>
- ④ Yatai (屋台): Yatai are mobile food stalls which appear on the streets in late afternoon and early evening. There are more than 200 in Fukuoka, mainly in the Nakasu and Tenjin areas, serving such dishes as Hakata ramen (Chinese noodles in a rich pork soup) and oden (vegetables and fish simmered in a light fish broth).
- ⑤ Kushida Shrine (櫛田神社): [5-min. walk from subway Gion Sta.] The oldest shrine (Shinto place of worship) in Fukuoka City. Kushida Shrine is thought to have been founded in the year 757, with the present structure dating back to 1587. Many people visit to pray for a long healthy life and business prosperity. The shrine serves as the center of the Yamakasa Festival, and a festival float is on permanent display within the grounds.
- ⑥ Hakata Machiya Folk Museum (博多町家ふるさと館): [10-min. walk from subway Gion Sta.] Located just in front of Kushida Shrine, the museum presents the life and times of the people of Hakata during the Meiji and Taisho Eras (1868-1926). Particularly popular are video presentations of the Yamakasa Festival and the small shop which sells a comprehensive range of local crafts. Open: 10:00-18:00 (enter by 17:30). Closed: Dec. 29 - 31. Admission: ¥200.
- ⑦ Sumiyoshi Shrine (住吉神社): [15-min. walk from JR Hakata Sta.] This shrine is said to be one of the oldest in Kyushu and is dedicated to the guardian god of sailors. The present main shrine, restored in 1623, retains the typical "Sumiyoshi-zukuri" style of architecture.
- ⑧ Shofukuji Temple (聖福寺): [5-min. walk from subway Gion Sta.] After four years of study in China, a priest named Eisai returned to Japan and introduced Zen Buddhism, establishing Shofukuji Temple as Japan's first Zen Buddhist temple. Eisai also introduced tea, and the first tea bushes in Japan were cultivated in the temple grounds.
- ⑨ Tochoji Temple (東長寺): [2-min. walk from subway Gion Sta.] While the structure is modern, the temple has been long established. Completed only in 1993, the biggest attraction for visitors is its image of Buddha, which at 10.8 meters (36 ft.) is Japan's tallest such wooden image.
- ⑩ Hakata Riverain (博多リバーイン): [immediately above subway Nakasu-Kawabata Sta. Exit 6] A new commercial complex with a theater, a hotel, shops and restaurants. On the 7th floor is the Fukuoka Asian Art Museum featuring a collection of contemporary Asian art. Open: 10:00-20:00. (enter by 19:30). Closed on Wed. (When Wed. falls on a national holiday, next day will be closed.) and Dec. 26 to Jan. 1. Admission: ¥200. <http://faam.city.fukuoka.jp/eng/home.html> On the 2nd basement floor is Nigiwai Plaza, which has a display of local crafts and Internet-linked computers that can be used free of charge. Open 10:00-20:00. Closed Jan. 1.
- ⑪ Bayside Place Hakata Futoh (ベイサイドプレイス博多ふ頭): [30-min. walk from subway Tenjin Sta. or 14min. by bus from Hakata Sta.] This waterfront complex of shops and restaurants is one of Fukuoka's most popular attractions. The interior features a large columnar aquarium, while the outside has broad wooden decks for strolling along the waterfront. This is also the departure point for Hakata Bay cruises and for ferries to nearby islands.

OHORI PARK AREA

- ⑫ Ohori Park (大濠公園): [7-min. walk from subway Ohorikoen Sta.] This large park is comprised mostly of a central lake, which originally formed part of the outer moat of Fukuoka Castle. Around the lake runs a broad path which is popular with joggers, cyclists and walkers alike. Ohori Park is also home to Fukuoka Art Museum (福岡市美術館) Open: 9:30-17:30 (enter by 17:00), Jul. & Aug. -19:30. Closed: Mon. and Dec. 28- Jan 4. Admission: ¥200, <http://www.fukuoka-art-museum.jp/english/index.html> and Ohori Park Japanese Garden (大濠公園日本庭園) Open: 9:00-17:00 (enter by 16:45). Closed: Mon. (When Mon. falls on a national holiday, next day will be closed.) Dec. 29- Jan 3. Admission: ¥240. Adjoining Ohori Park on the east side is Maizuru Park (舞鶴公園) where you can explore the ruins of Fukuoka Castle (福岡城址), which was originally completed in 1608.
- ⑬ Minami Park (南公園): [20 min. by bus from Hakata Sta.] This large park situated on a hill in the southern part of the city and is home to Fukuoka Zoo and Botanical Gardens (福岡市立動植物園) Open: 9:00-17:00. Closed: Mon. and Dec. 29- Jan. 1. Admission (to both facilities): ¥400.
- ⑭ Yusentei Garden (友泉亭公園): [35 min. by bus from JR Hakata Sta.] Originally built as a villa for a feudal lord, Yusentei Garden was remade into a classic Japanese-style garden. Open: 9:00-17:00. Closed: Mon. (When Mon. falls on a national holiday, next day will be closed.) and Dec. 29- Jan. 1. Admission: ¥200.

SEASIDE MOMOCHI AREA

- ⑰ Seaside Momochi (シーサイドももち): [15-min. walk from Tojinmachi, Nishijin or subway Fujisaki Sta.] Built on reclaimed land, this waterfront location presents Fukuoka's most modern face, and is home to a large number of cultural and commercial facilities:

Fukuoka Tower (福岡タワー) is Japan's tallest coastal tower offering excellent views over adjacent Hakata Bay and the city as a whole from the observation deck at 123 meters. Open: 9:30-22:00(from Apr.1 to Sep.30), 9:30-21:00(Oct.1 to Mar.31). Admission: ¥800 (<http://www.fukuokatower.co.jp/language/english.html>) Immediately to the north, flanked by sandy beaches, is a pier called Marizon (マリゾン) from where you can cross Hakata Bay by boat to Uminonakamichi Seaside Park (海の中道海浜公園), while just to the south is Fukuoka City Museum (福岡市博物館). The central theme of the museum is the role the city has played as a center of exchange in East Asia. Open: 9:30-17:30, Jul & Aug.-19:30 (except Sun.) enter 30min. before each closing time. Closed: Mon. (When Mon. falls on a national holiday, next day will be closed.) and Dec. 28- Jan 4. Admission: ¥200. To the east is Hawks Town (ホークスタウン) which features Fukuoka Yahoo! JAPAN Dome (福岡ヤフージャパンドーム), Japan's first retractable-roofed dome and home to the Fukuoka Softbank Hawks professional baseball team. The promenade which rings the dome at the 3rd floor level is popular with visitors and residents alike.

- ⑩ Marinoa City Fukuoka (マリノアシティ福岡): [15min. by bus from subway Meinohama Sta.] This waterfront outlet mall is also home to a Ferris wheel.

HAKOZAKI SHRINE

- ⑪ Hakozaki Shrine (筥崎宮): [3-min. walk from subway Hakozaki-Miyamae Sta.] Established in 923, the present structures date back to the mid-16th to early 17th centuries. An important festival, Hojoya, takes place here from September 12-18 every year. Along the main approach to the shrine is Hakozaki Shrine Flower Garden (筥崎宮花庭園) which features peonies and other flowering plants in season. Open: 9:30-17:00. Closed: Mon. (When Mon. falls on a national holiday, next day will be closed.) Admission ¥100-¥500 depending on season.

Side Trip to Dazaifu (太宰府):

[40 min. by Nishitetsu Tenjin-Omuta Line from Nishitetsu Fukuoka Sta. in Tenjin, changing at Futsukaichi, get off at Dazaifu] The city is famous as the home of Dazaifu Tenmangu Shrine (太宰府天満宮), established in 905 to deity Michizane Sugawara, a great scholar of Chinese literature, as the "guardian god of learning." The present main shrine dates back to 1590. The grounds are planted with 6,000 Japanese plum trees which bloom from late January to March. Treasure Hall (宝物殿) also in the grounds has a small but very fine collection of artifacts. Open: 9:00-16:30. (enter by 16:00) Closed: Mon. (depending on month) Admission: ¥300. Don't miss nearby Komyozenji Temple (光明禪寺) which has a beautiful moss garden. Open: 8:00-17:00. Donation: ¥200.
